Q9: Which of the following comes closer to your view about the U.S. economy?

Statement A: The main problem with the economy right now is high prices that are putting pressure on families. If we can get inflation under control and bring down everyday costs, the economy will be working for most Americans again.

Statement B: The economy has deeper problems than just high prices for everyday essentials. For too long, the system has favored the wealthy and large corporations at the expense of working families. Bringing down prices is important, but what we really need are fundamental changes so the economy works for everyone, not just those at the top.

Q12a: Below are two approaches government might take to help everyday Americans afford more. Which do you agree with more, even if neither is exactly right?

Approach A: Government sets a higher minimum wage, provides healthcare to all Americans, and regulates prices on essential goods so people can afford more.

Approach B: Wages are determined by the market and there are fewer regulations on prices, but government provides subsidies and tax credits to help people who need it to pay for healthcare and everyday expenses.
